Hoot is about a kid named Roy and he has many adventures in his new home in the state of Florida. He gets in many mischiefs in school and with a kid who lives in the street named Mullet Fingers. One problem is about the owls that live in holes in the ground. Where the owls live is the same place they are doing a construction site of Mother Paula's Famous House of Pancakes. If they bury the holes the owls will die. Roy and Mullet Fingers are trying to stop them.

Carl Hiaasen wrote Hoot to show how kids could accomplish their goals. Like Roy and Mullet Fingers accomplished their goal to save the owls from dying.

Carl Hiaasen uses imagery that makes you imagine your favorite part of the book. One example of my favorite part is when Dana's toes got trapped by the rat traps. While I was reading I was imagining that part.

You would have a lot of fun reading Hoot and it will make you laugh. Also it is very interesting and very mysterious.
